Productivity improving technologies date back to antiquity, with rather slow progress until the late Middle Ages. Important examples of early to medieval European technology include the water wheel, the horse collar, the spinning wheel, the three-field system (after 1500 the four-field system"see Crop rotation) and the blast furnace. All of ...

The synthesis of soft and machinable, yet orderly porous materials has long been considered unfeasible. This is the case since in nature ordered porosities can be found in long-range extended crystalline networks, which are generally rigid and brittle, while softness and processability commonly originate from network defects and disorder in ...
